

Could you help transform learning and skills for Manchester City Region by becoming a Governor of one of the UK's biggest colleges?

We are looking for exceptional people who can help us deliver the vision and mission of The Manchester College. This is a new college that, subject to approval by the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills, will be set up from the coming together of City College Manchester and Manchester College of Arts and Technology. In its new form, The Manchester College is expected to be the biggest college in the UK.

The new college is expected to have a challenging vision, building on Manchester's success as an economic and educational centre and dedicating itself to providing excellence in education and training for the people, communities and employers of the Manchester City Region.

The LSC is keen to work with a diverse range of organisations to provide opportunities to meet local needs and priorities.

Subject to ministerial approval, The Manchester College will be established as a legal corporation in February 2008 in order to prepare for the first intake of learners in August.

We are seeking expressions of interest from people who have the expertise, the energy and the commitment to become governors of the new college.
