The Training Quality Standard Explained – half day workshops in your region

The Training Quality Standard is a national mark that recognises those training providers that demonstrate excellence in training, responsiveness to employers' needs and commitment to continuous improvement.

If you are an employer or a training provider, we would like to invite you to a free workshop on what the Standard can do for you and the support available to achieve it.

The Training Quality Standard is designed by the Learning and Skills Council and supported by Skills for Health. To find out more visit www.skillsforhealth.org.uk/tqs
