

Help for chefs to recover from the recession

Carlton Hotel, Torquay, 19 Jan.
2010 from 11.00 to 13.00
followed by a FREE lunch

With Pete Drewett – insights into motivation and management

Pete Drewett, leadership and management expert, formerly of England Rugby and Exeter Chiefs, will be discussing the values of being part of a team, communication and how to improve motivation at a FREE Event taking place in Torquay

The event will be held at the Carlton Hotel, Torquay, from 11.00 to 13.00 on 19 January 2010, followed by a free lunch.

The event is aimed at chefs working in the tourism and leisure industry and will look at how they can be better equipped to take advantage of the economic upturn when it comes.

Also speaking will be Charles Trevor-Roper of Coaching to Success, specialists in running training courses for the hospitality industry. The first 50 to sign up will also receive a free copy of his book – Motivational Management Made Easy.

Chefs will be able to find out at first hand about leadership and management training opportunities available to them from their local skills advisors. Chefs will also be shown how their business can benefit from Government-funded training and other initiatives from People 1st, the sector skills council for hospitality, leisure, travel and tourism.

To reserve a free place, including lunch, please contact Carla Modley at Devon County Council on 01392 383144 or carla.modley@devon.gov.uk no later than Tuesday 12 January 2010. Places are limited and are expected to fill up fast.
