

WILTSHIRE - DON'T LET TRAINING GIVE YOU NIGHTMARES THIS HALLOWEEN

Date of issue 29 October 2008

Company bosses in Wiltshire who are having training nightmares are being encouraged this Halloween to seek help from Train to Gain to stop the horror continuing!

With the credit crunch putting more pressure on companies to reduce costs and retain customers Train to Gain can help by providing staff with effective training.

Wiltshire-based companies can ease their nightmare by talking to Train to Gain which offers businesses impartial advice on their skills requirements; matching training needs of companies with training providers, sourcing potential funding and grants and finding courses that suit them and their employees.

Train to Gain can take away much of the stress of finding suitable training as they research and recommend the most effective training methods for each organisation. With a well-trained workforce, businesses can expect to see many benefits such as increased profitability and a well-motivated and highly skilled workforce.

Chris Minett, Skills Development Director at Train to Gain, said: "We were set up to help organisations make informed decisions about training, so that they can help staff enhance their skills and boost productivity. We are helping hundreds of businesses in Wiltshire stop their training nightmares and we are here to help many more."
