Your guide to learning options in Yorkshire and the Humber

2008/09

For people aged 16-24

Welcome

If you're aged between 16-24 and:

- thinking about what to do when you leave school or college,
- considering a change of direction, or
- wanting to improve your skills,

then this booklet will help you to map out your steps to a successful future.

If you are thinking "I haven't a clue what I want to do and everyone else seems to be sorted", don't worry because you are not alone. Most people your age are probably thinking exactly the same thing (even if they don't admit it).

Even if you do have some idea of what you'd like to do, it's still normal to feel confused by all the options available - where to study, what to study, who to speak to.

Steps To Success is a way of sorting through all the ideas and all the information. It has impartial information and relevant contacts all in one place. As you are reading, jot down any questions you may want an answer to before you forget them. Then, when you are ready, take this booklet and your questions and talk to someone - whether that is your Connexions Personal Adviser (a nextstep Adviser if you are over 20), your family, your teacher or your friends.

Remember ....

It's YOUR life .....

It's YOUR future .....

And it's YOUR choice .....

Only YOU can control what you do next!

Step 1: Planning Your Future

Taking Control

Don't panic! Planning your future might sound scary but it doesn't have to be. The best place to start is to ask yourself a few questions. It can help to make notes. Maybe you could answer these questions with a friend or someone in your family?

Start with school/college:

- How do/did you feel about your time at school/college?
- What subjects are/were you good at?
- What subjects do/did you enjoy most?
- What subjects do/did you find difficult?
- What subjects do/did you dislike?
- What examinations have you passed or do you expect to pass, and at what grades?
- What projects and assignments are you proud of?
- Do you like learning new things?
- Do you like learning by studying or by doing?

Now think about your skills:

- Can you make a list of your skills?
- How are you at organising people or events?
- What are your communication skills like (i.e. talking, listening, writing, foreign languages)?
- What computer skills do you have?
- Do you have any practical skills (anything from drawing to fixing bikes to cooking)?
- From the list you've made, which skills do you enjoy using the most?

Now think about your personality:

- Do you get on well with people?
- Do you like meeting new people?
- Are you ambitious?
- Are you reliable?
- Are you a good timekeeper?
- How do you feel about deadlines?
- Are you practical?
- Do you like responsibility?
- Do you like new situations and challenges?
- Do you work better on your own or in a team?
- What are your strengths and weaknesses?

Finally, look at your interests and the things that matter to you:

- What do you do in your spare time (hobbies)?
- What do you want out of life (e.g. money, excitement, challenge, job satisfaction, travel)?
- What ambitions do you have?

When you've worked your way through all these questions you should have a good idea of the kind of person you are and the kind of things you like doing. This will be useful when you start to think about what you might want to do in the future.

The Three Way Choice

It might help to think about your future choices after school/college as being in three broad areas:

- Carry on studying or training full-time;
- Leave school/college and get a job;
- Leave school/college and be unemployed.

Whatever path you choose might depend on how you answered the earlier questions. For example, if you don't like school/college very much and you're ambitious, then you might feel hungry to get a job. If so, think about whether you want one where you'll get further training and qualifications (such as an Apprenticeship) or one where you don't have to do any more studying. Research shows that the more qualifications you have, the more money you are likely to earn.

Staying unemployed is getting harder to do out of choice. Think about why you might consider this option - for example, would you like to travel? If you would, think about how you would support yourself. Life isn't much fun without money!

If you want to carry on with your education full-time you need to think about the different options that are available to you - the types of courses available and where you would go to study them. There's more about these options later in the booklet.

Which Career?

There's nothing wrong with carrying on with your education just because you haven't decided what kind of work you want to do yet. But sooner or later you will have to consider which career path you would like to follow. You're likely to spend a large part of your life at work so it's a good idea to start finding out about different types of jobs.

Some careers are really tough to get into, so being realistic is important. We'd all like to be the next Steven Gerrard or Avril Lavigne but sport and music, along with careers like acting and modelling, are professions where only the most talented succeed. Before setting your heart on one of these, be absolutely sure you have the talent and determination to make it. Don't give up too easily but have a few back up ideas in case things don't work out.

Make a list of jobs you are interested in and then look into them in more detail. If you don't know where to start, your local Connexions Centre will have access to various careers databases. So if you want to know what an actuary does, how many hours a teacher works, what qualifications you need to be a sound engineer or how much a holiday rep gets paid, now's the time to find out. Your school/college may also have a careers library.

Once you have a list of jobs that you're interested in, think about how you match up.

- Do you, or will you have, the right academic qualifications?
- Do you have, or expect to have, the right grades?
- Are you missing any relevant skills?
- Do you need more experience to do the job?
- Is your family pressurising you to do something else?
- Will money be a problem for you?

If you have highlighted any problems, can any of them be solved?

Try not to make decisions straight away. Gather all your information, read through it all, get some advice and make an initial decision. After a few days look through it all again and see if you still feel comfortable with your decisions so far.

Level 2 at 19

It's worth bearing in mind just how important a good education is. What you do at this stage of your life can affect you later on.

By the age of 19 everyone should have achieved a minimum set of qualifications to get on in life (NVQ Level 2 is equivalent to 5 GCSEs at A* - C). Having this level of qualification is a springboard to getting a decent job, good training or better qualifications. Without this minimum set of qualifications your options in life are limited. For example did you know that:

- Those without the minimum set of qualifications are 10% more likely to be unemployed;
- By 2010 very few jobs will be open to those without the minimum set of qualifications;
- You could miss out on up to £4000 a year if you do not have the minimum set of qualifications.

But:

- Those with five good GCSEs earn on average 9% more than those without;
- Employers are more likely to invest in your future development and career;
- You can choose to go on and study Level 3 (equivalent to 2 A levels) and then on to a degree, opening up even more possibilities in your future career.

There have never been so many ways to achieve the minimum set of qualifications. You can train whilst working or study full-time in college or school, in a variety of occupational areas. And, if you need additional support with your learning, help is available.

Step 2: Deciding What To Learn

After following Step 1 - Planning Your Future, you should have:

- an idea of the type of person you are,
- some ideas of the type of career you'd like to follow, and
- an understanding of how having a good education can really help you get on in life.

This next section is about what you can learn - the different learning options available. Step 3 (page 10) explains where you can go to study various qualifications.

Apprenticeships

Want to earn while you learn? Getting paid while you learn might sound too good to be true. But, as an Apprentice you really do get the best of both worlds. While you're studying for your Apprenticeship qualifications, you'll get hands-on work experience and you'll also get paid!

There are two levels available and which one is right for you will depend on your experience. An Apprenticeship leads to an NVQ Level 2 (equivalent to 5 GCSEs at A*-C), while an Advanced Apprenticeship leads to an NVQ Level 3 (equivalent to 2 A Levels). With each, you will also work towards your Key Skills qualifications and, in most cases, a technical certificate such as a BTEC or a City & Guilds qualification. Apprenticeships cover a wide range of occupational areas, last between 1-4 years (depending on the level/type of Apprenticeship) and can act as a stepping stone to University. And, with well over 60 occupational areas on offer - from accounting to retail, agriculture to engineering, hospitality to IT - there should be something to help your career get off to a flying start! For more information on Apprenticeships, visit www.apprenticeships.org.uk

e2e

e2e is a learning programme for young people who are not yet ready to join an Apprenticeship, go to college or get a job. The programme offers you the opportunity to develop your personal and social skills, try out different work areas and gain qualifications up to NVQ Level 1.

GCSE Qualifications

The majority of students in England take GCSE exams at the age of 16. They cover a wide range of subjects and universities (and some colleges) usually expect an applicant to have high grades in at least 5 of these. Many young people take further GCSEs after the age of 16, or resit GCSEs in the hope of getting higher grades second time round.

Advanced Level Qualifications (AS Levels and A Levels)

AS Levels and A Levels are academic courses that require the study of single subjects in depth. Sometimes you are assessed by examination only, whilst others contain coursework assessment as well. You will be graded A to E at the end of the course.

AS levels are made up of three units and together these make up the first half of a full A Level. The usual pattern on a two-year fulltime course is to study four or five AS Level units in the first year. In the second year, you can continue with some or all of these to full A Levels. Alternatively, you can start one or more new AS Levels in the second year, and receive an AS Level qualification in those subjects that you do not want to continue with.

An A Level is made up of three AS units and three additional A2 units. After AS and/or A Levels, you can either continue further with your study or enter employment.

Vocational Qualifications

Vocational A Levels are full-time courses that are offered in a variety of work-related subjects such as engineering, art and design and business studies. They cover the knowledge and skills that are vital to the subject, as well as giving an understanding of the area of work. There are three awards available, consisting of three, six and twelve units. These are equivalent to an AS Level, an A Level and an A Level Double Award respectively. It is possible to combine AS and A Level subjects with Vocational A Levels.

First Certificates and Diplomas

First Certificates and Diplomas are introductory work-related qualifications in areas such as agriculture and construction. The courses are usually one year and may be taken full or part time. Students may need GCSEs at grades D - G to study a First Certificate or Diploma.

National Certificates and Diplomas

National Certificates and Diplomas are the next level up from First Certificates and Diplomas. Again they are offered in workrelated subjects such as fashion and music. The courses are full or part-time and can be taken in conjunction with appropriate NVQ and/or Key Skills units. Students may need either four GCSEs grades A* - C, a First Certificate or relevant work experience to study a National course.

Step 3: Deciding Where To Learn

Apprenticeship and e2e Providers

Apprenticeship Providers and e2e Providers... not surprisingly, offer Apprenticeships and e2e programmes. They vary in size from small private providers to large Further Education Colleges. Some providers will offer a range of occupational areas whilst others may concentrate on one or two. For more information on the Apprenticeship Providers and e2e Providers in the region and what they deliver please go to page 26.

School Sixth Forms

If you enjoyed school, are academically minded and like the idea of staying in full-time education, then your local sixth form may be the answer. You'll be in familiar surroundings and there are a number of courses, both full and part-time available. Qualifications include:

- GCSE
- AS Level
- A Level
- Vocational A Level
- BTEC Certificates/Diplomas

There are 166 School Sixth Forms in the region. If you don't want to study at your local school, then why not try one of the others? For more information on what's on offer at School Sixth Forms you should contact them direct (see page 30 for their details).

Further Education Colleges

Further Education Colleges run a variety of courses leading to various qualifications. These qualifications will usually consist of either one or two years of part-time or full-time study, combined with work placement and practical exercises. Some courses (although not all) may require you to have certain GCSE grades but there are no lower or upper age limits. You can take a variety of qualifications including:

- Apprenticeship/NVQs
- GCSE
- AS Level
- A Level
- Vocational A-Level
- BTEC Certificates/Diplomas

There are 42 Further Education Colleges in the region, all with exciting courses on offer. For more information on the qualifications available you should contact them direct (see page 33 for their details).

Sixth Form Colleges

Sixth Form Colleges are similar to Further Education Colleges. Again, academic study is mixed with work placement and practical exercises and a variety of qualifications are available including:

- GCSE
- AS Level
- A Level
- Vocational A-Level
- BTEC Certificates/Diplomas
- Vocational Certificate of Education

There are 11 Sixth Form Colleges in the region. For more information on all the qualifications on offer you should contact them direct (see page 34 for their details).

More detailed information can be found online in your local area prospectus. Turn to page 35 for more details.

Step 4: Financial Help

Education Maintenance Allowance (EMA)

If you stay in learning and your household income is below a certain level, you could receive up to £30 per week to help you out with things like books, equipment and travel costs. It's called the Education Maintenance Allowance or EMA for short. The money which EMA could give you means you'll be able to concentrate on enjoying your course without worrying so much about money. Bonus payments are also available if you stick with your course and do well.

EMA is paid during term-time, provided you attend all course sessions and your course involves at least 12 hours of guided learning per week (such as lectures and supervised study). The course can be up to Level 3 at a School Sixth Form, Sixth Form College or Further Education College. From April you can also apply if you're on a Programme Led Apprenticeship (this is when you're on an Apprenticeship but you're not yet employed by your employer) or an e2e programme.

The EMA is a weekly payment of £30, £20, or £10 per week. The exact amount you'll receive will depend on your household income. To qualify for EMA this should be less than the EMA threshold which is currently £30,810 (rate is subject to change).

For more information on EMA thresholds visit the EMA website www.direct.gov.uk/ema or call the EMA helpline on 0808 1016219.

Adult Learning Grant

If you are aged 19 or over and studying full-time for a first full Level 2 or first full Level 3 qualification, you may be eligible for an Adult Learning Grant. The grant could provide you with a sum of up to £30 per week to assist with the additional costs of learning such as books, equipment and travel costs. The grant will be paid direct into your bank account each week but only during term time (usually around 38 weeks in the year).

To qualify you must:

- Be aged 19 or over;
- Be studying full-time for a first full Level 2 or Level 3 qualification;
- Be under 31 years of age if studying at first Level 3.

Normally the grant is payable for up to 2 years but this can be extended if you are studying for a first full Level 2 and then immediately progressing onto a full Level 3 and you expect to complete your learning within a maximum of three years.

For the latest information on Adult Learner Grants visit www.adultlearninggrant.com, phone 0800 100 900 or see your local nextstep adviser (see page 16 for nextstep information).

National Minimum Wage

If you are employed then you will be paid a wage by your employer. How much you get depends on your employer and you may be paid weekly or monthly. There is a National Minimum Wage which sets hourly rates below which pay must not be allowed to fall.

National Minimum Wage Structure

Aged 16-17 - Young Workers Rate

£3.30 per hour from 1 October 2006

NB: 16 and 17 year old Apprentices are exempt from the young workers rate.

Aged 18-21 - Development Rate

£4.45 per hour from 1 October 2006

Aged 22 and over - Main Rate

£5.35 per hour from 1 October 2006.

For more information on the National Minimum Wage call the National Minimum Wage Helpline on 0845 6000 678 or visit www.direct.gov.uk/nmw

Childcare for Young Learners

If you are 16 or over but under 19 and in learning or training, you may be eligible to have your childcare costs paid in full.

To qualify you must:

- Be under 19 when you start learning;
- Be starting a course of learning or training in a school, college or as a trainee with a work based learning provider that receives some public funding;
- Be caring for your own child/children (fathers are also eligible if they are the main carer);
- Be living in England;
- Use a registered childcare provider.
