Area of activity	Specialist provider for services relating to support for people affected by dyslexia and other hidden and specific learning difficulties.
Description of activity (in 500 words)
Dyslexia Action is a national non-profit making charity and the UK's leading provider of support for people with dyslexia and literacy difficulties. We provide a range of services to cover the full 'learner journey' from initial identification of a hidden disability through to support to develop coping strategies to aid rehabilitation. Our main services for OLASS 4 include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Screening using our Hidden Disabilities Questionnaire (HDQ) which highlights features of hidden disabilities including dyslexia, dyspraxia, ADD/ADHD, Autistic Spectrum Disorders and co-morbidity.</li> <li>• Awareness training and training providers to administer HDQ.</li> <li>• Diagnostic assessments by psychologists or teacher assessors.</li> <li>• Coaching and learning support for both literacy and numeracy skills, either individually or in groups.</li> <li>• Supporting offenders moving into employment.</li> <li>• Supplying teaching and learning resources.</li> </ul> We employ over 300 specialist teachers as well as over 90 consulting psychologists and support staff.

Over the last 3 years Dyslexia Action has worked with 36 prisons or young offender institutions, delivering assessments, awareness training, literacy and numeracy support for offenders and support in the workplace for staff. Some of the prisons we have worked in include:

Dyslexia Action has worked on many partnership projects throughout the country. Our work involves working with the prison service, providing provision for the unemployed, students and excluded youngsters plus training for employers and other providers.

As dyslexia affects 10% of the population, and statistics show this is significantly higher amongst offenders, our projects extend across a wide range of social groups.

Our service is always about tailoring our solution and working with others to deliver the best possible outcome for the individual. Examples of two of our most recent projects are outlined below.

Project Name: PALS (Positive Action through Learning Support)

Dates: 1999 – 31 July 2011

Partners: Nottingham Probation Trust

Brief description: PALS engaged offenders back into learning by helping them achieve national qualifications in literacy and numeracy thus enhancing their employability and rehabilitation.

During 2009-10 there were a total of 1062 referrals to PALS; we worked with 851 learners and 205 passed national tests. PALS received the prestigious Butler award in 2009-10 for its outstanding work in helping probation clients achieve qualifications.

Project Name: Transform

Dates: October 2008 – March 2010

Partners: Led by The Manchester College with its partners (Shaw Trust, SOVA, Probation services, Derby College, Stoke College, The BDA and ourselves)

Brief description: The aim of the project was to support offenders in custody and probation into employment. The HDQ (Hidden Disabilities Questionnaire) was used as a screening tool and those with high indicators referred to us for further assessment. From April 2009-10 there were 358 referrals. We also trained approximately 100 staff to use the HDQ.

GOALS is part of the induction process for new prisoners entering HMP Addiewell in Edinburgh. All staff have been GOALS trained and courses are delivered by prison officers. We have worked in 20 other prisons across the UK, Merseyside Probation Trust, Leicestershire Probation Trust, Lancashire and Morecambe College, The Manchester College, A4E and Milton Keynes College, many London Youth Offending Teams, Nacro and Serco (LDA/ESF).

Through the use of positive psychology and cognitive behavioural therapy techniques, we will challenge customers thinking and perceptions on employment and the benefits that employment can have on their lifestyle. The aim of the programme is to encourage positive thinking and empower individuals to take control of their life and their future. Through the workshops we will give customers confidence and self motivation and belief.

Description of activity (in 500 words) Our team of qualified trainers have first class experience of working and delivering training within the rail industry and we are currently delivering a Rail Course, Streetworks and a Forklift Course within the prison service who have been using our services since August 2007. The Rail course we currently deliver is a ten week course which starts with health and safety training, leading on to the correct use of small tools equipment through to removing and replacing railway infrastructure. Upon satisfactory completion of the course our learners achieve an NVQ level 2 qualification which upon release helps them to gain employment in the rail industry. As a business we believe in continually adding value to the reducing reoffending rate and to support this we work in partnership with a consultant that not only monitors the progress and success of the rail training provided he also mentors and supports the learners following release from custody. This includes indentifying potential employers, arranging interviews and supporting the work of the probation service. We also deliver a New Roads and Streetworks Course which leads to employment with the utilities companies. This course involves the use of tools, equipment and small plant which covers excavation and reinstatement using cold lay tarmac, the correct use of cable avoidance equipment, the setting up and operation of traffic lights including road cones and signage. From completion the learners gain a City and Guilds qualification and a Scotvec Card which enables them to work with the utilities companies. Training is also provided to the learners in the operation and driving of counterbalance forklift trucks. Following successful completion the learners are certificated with an RTITB operator's licence. From this there is then the opportunity to have additional one day conversion training in the use of other types of lift trucks. Training can also be delivered for the safe operation of construction plant equipment (mini digger and dumpers). Training on the equipment is certificated by different awarding bodies that we are able to work with including Lantra, PPETO and Construction Awards Alliance. This adds value to employment opportunities within the construction industry.

There is also an opportunity for the delivery of engineering training which includes electrical, mechanical, hydraulics and pneumatics. This would be delivered at NVQ level 2 and would support employment as a technician into the plant and construction industry, however, the machinery that is used on a daily basis to support the maintenance and new infrastructure for the rail industry also has a requirement for people with these skills to maintain equipment which is a requirement of the Railway Plant Association and Network Rail.

Area of activity	Learning &amp; Communications
Description of activity (in 500 words)
Organisation details The Prison Radio Association (PRA) was established as an education charity following a successful pilot project involving the BBC and HM Prison Service in 2005. The charity supports dozens of radio training projects within prisons across the prison estate. The PRA conceived the idea for a national prison radio station, and in May 2009 was contracted (at no cost) by the Ministry of Justice to develop and manage this service. National Prison Radio is a partnership between the PRA and NOMS. NOMS is responsible for installing the equipment required to enable prisoners to access the service. National Prison Radio is the world's first national prison radio station. It provides educational and resettlement programming exclusively to prisoners. Content is produced by prisoners trained in radio production who work alongside the PRA's team of professional radio producers (all ex-BBC). The service is broadcast via in-cell television sets. The PRA's overall aim is to reduce reoffending. It works to achieve this through two specific mechanisms: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Delivery of (and support of) participative learning activities – engaging hard-to-reach prisoners in the production of speech-based radio programming</li> <li>• Provision of a dedicated communications service (National Prison Radio) – broadcasting programmes to prisoners about a range of important issues</li> </ul> ESF Round 1 The PRA was awarded an ESF contract by London Probation in Round 1 to deliver soft-skills to prisoners involved in radio production at HMP Brixton. The PRA exceeded its contractual targets. A December 2010 HMCIP inspection report of HMP Brixton cited the radio project as good practice in supporting the development of employability skills.

'The national prison radio studio offered employment to prisoners who had successfully completed the radio production certificate and enabled them to acquire good transferable work skills.'.....'The quality of the work was generally very good with some exceptional artwork and award-winning radio productions.'

Her Majesty's Chief Inspector of Prisons

National Prison Radio – Communicating learning opportunities in OLASS 4

Individual prisoners directly involved in the production and presentation of intelligent radio programming benefit significantly from the experience. However, the real potential of prison radio is in reaching the wider prison population; delivering key messages (supporting NOMS priorities in reducing reoffending) on behalf of a range of agencies.

Broadcasts include a mix of speech and specialist music programming. Educational programming addresses a variety of issues, including: learning and skills; health and well-being; family and relationships; offending behaviour; safer custody and; resettlement.

The PRA can offer a communications service to education providers; signposting prisoners to available opportunities. By giving a voice to a range of agencies, the PRA can encourage its prisoner audience to become active learners; engaging with a range of advice and support services.

Area of activity	Advice and information related to distance learning, peer mentoring, resettlement support (mentors and grants),
Description of activity (in 500 words)
Prisoners Education Trust is the only charity focusing specifically and exclusively on prisoners' education. We provide access to courses in subjects and levels not available through standard OLASS provision through our grants programme. We offer advice and information on distance learning courses, peer mentor training, resettlement grants and mentors, and also engage in advocacy through our Learning Matters project.

The Trust has over 21 years experience providing specialist advice and information related to distance learning to prisoners across England and Wales. We have a suite of 12 career briefings linking distance learning to employment and further training prospects and are currently developing content so distance learning materials can be included on the Virtual Campus. We work closely with current OLASS providers, providing telephone advice and information as well as materials specifically related to distance learning, enabling staff to have access to a wider range of strategies and materials to support learners.

The Trust has delivered our Level 2 accredited peer mentoring course in over 30 prisons nationally. Peer learning mentors help increase learning success among key groups of prisoners in order to give them a better chance of building a different future on release and avoid reoffending. The qualification can help build employment potential and provides a progression route for other voluntary activities, e.g. Toe by Toe mentors. Trained prisoner mentors can work in any learning / training settings within the prison – classrooms, workshops and one to one, as well as translation assistants for foreign nationals, in drugs programmes such as Carats, and in other offending behaviour programmes. We are currently looking to develop the content so it can be delivered online via the Virtual Campus.

Our resettlement project has been running on a small scale for the last three years. Funders' restrictions have meant that it has only been available for young offenders under 26 from, or connected to, London, and previously funded for distance learning courses. To date, we have worked with 40 young offenders, with 33 grants approved, of which 76% are to members of black and minority ethnic groups. Recipients have been provided with bursaries and support from a mentor. The bursary itself is a practical benefit, covering some of the costs of the individual's resettlement plans: there are intangible benefits as well – applicants' self esteem gets a real boost from being awarded a grant, and when they apply they have to develop a sensible resettlement plan. Grant recipients are supported for six months after receipt of the grant. Some are tracked for longer, particularly if they draw down the grant over an extended period. Most of the grant recipients are still out of prison: of the 33, one was reconvicted, one has been arrested, two were recalled to prison but not charged. Five grant recipients are at university and three are working towards university.

Area of Activity	Employment training and support
Description of Activity (in 500 words)
Mencap has over thirty years experience of providing employment support to people with a learning disability or difficulty, as well as other disabled or disadvantaged groups. We have worked with people facing a range of challenges, including those with dyslexia, cognitive learning difficulties, sensory or physical impairments, poor memory and concentration, or on the autistic spectrum.

For OLASS phase 4, Mencap will provide a modular approach to supporting offenders with a learning disability or difficulty through to employment via our Employ Me programme.

Employ Me takes people through the whole process of preparing for and finding work. The programme takes a modular approach, so people only access the modules that they need. People who are more distant from the job market may need to access most or all of the modules.

The individual journey that people take is determined through an assessment process, and this is the first stage in Employ Me. The modules are as follows:

- Induction
- Assessment
- Agreeing your programme
- My skills
- Work skills
- Finding work
- Starting work
- Work skills and placements
- Sustaining work
- Developing your career
- Working with employers

The assessment process helps to identify which modules would best meet a person's needs in order to support them to be job-ready. People can be supported individually or in a group (where appropriate for this client group). Recognising that people have different wishes and abilities, our assessment will also help to identify appropriate goals for each person.

We will work with each person to develop an Action Plan which is focused on their particular learning and employment goals. Though this is a modular system, and people can choose which modules they go through, the processes used for each module are consistent across all of our employment services. So each person will get a consistent approach..

Throughout Employ Me there is an emphasis on the realities of work, including a focus on employee rights and responsibilities, team working and being supervised. Skills in job searching, CV writing and interview skills are available if people need to access these.

We work to outcomes:

- hard outcomes for people reaching their goals, and obtaining paid work;
- and softer outcomes, such as increasing confidence and self-esteem; developing teamwork skills; understanding that employers and colleagues rely on employees to turn up and be on time; recognising own skills and aspirations.

Our employment support programmes are subject to Ofsted inspection and at our last inspection in July 2010, we achieved a Good grade across our services.

We have good employer links and a dedicated employer engagement team which works with national employers to agree numbers of ringfenced jobs which are then available locally to people we support. Employers with whom we already have agreements or are in discussions with include the Co-Operative, Sainsburys, Royal Mail, McDonalds, the Forestry Commission, Holiday Inn, Wetherspoons, Sodhexo, Marks and Spencers, Wilkinsons and Boots. We are confident we could put in place similar arrangements for offenders.

Description of Activity (in 500 words)	The Prince's Trust is the UK's leading youth charity. We work with 50,000 young people each year, supporting them to turn their lives around and move into education, employment, training and volunteering. The Prince's Trust has been working with young offenders since our inception in 1976. Young offenders form one of our core target groups, and 20 per cent of the young people we supported last year were offenders or ex-offenders. We secure strong outcomes for the young people we work with: last year 80% of all Prince's Trust participants moved into employment, education or training.

We currently deliver our programmes in a wide variety of prisons and YOIs. We work closely with front line staff in prisons, providing information and guidance to identify and engage suitable offenders for support. The Prince's Trust works very closely with Probation Services, who refer young people to our programmes as part of their rehabilitation.

We support young people up to the age of 30, so can operate both within Youth Offending Institutions and mainstream prisons. Although the specific programmes we can offer will vary by region, across the UK we can offer the following engagement, skills, training and enterprise programmes:

Enterprise: delivered across the UK to unemployed 18-30 year olds. Clients participate in a four day Explore Enterprise course to develop enterprise skills. They are then mentored for up to three years to test their ideas, write a business plan and are given specific support to launch their own business.

Fairbridge: a personal and social skills programme supporting the hardest to reach young people aged up to age 25 with multiple needs to move towards education, employment or training. It combines personal support and challenging activities that equip young people with the motivation and skills to be able to return to mainstream society and achieve their goal.

Development Awards: grants to help young people access education, training or employment opportunities. The aim of the grant is to remove the financial barrier that would otherwise prevent a young person from moving into the opportunity, for example a suit for an interview, course fees, travel to work in the first month of employment or equipment for a job or training programme. They also receive mentoring to help them progress into work.

Community Cash Awards: grants to help groups of young people start up their own, youth led community project. Young people receive advice and mentoring, develop confidence and leadership skills, and are supported to move into education, training or employment.

The 1-2-1 Transition Mentoring programme: a dedicated offender rehabilitation programme. Running since 2007 in our South East and South West regions, the 1-2-1 project uniquely trains reformed ex-offenders to inspire, advise and mentor young prisoners coming to the end of their sentence and through their transition to the community. The key to success for this programme is the collaborative approach that has been taken with criminal justice agencies.
